Comprehension:

Read the given passage and answer the questions that follow.

In martial arts, one is trained to develop power in each and every finger. When these fingers come together to form a punch, the tremendous nature of the impact created can hardly be exaggerated. The example here, should not be looked upon as a glorification of violent instincts. The body, the mind and the spirit come together to act in harmony and this calls for coordination of different parts of the body and concentration of a very high level.

Similarly, in the human society, civilisation can evolve only if people with the right thought and right action pool in their resources together to move towards the right direction. Right values are necessary if togetherness or unity is to yield the right results. A mass movement becomes disastrous if it loses the moral force.

It did not take much time for the French Revolution with the sacred ideas of 'Liberty, Equality and Fraternity' to degenerate into the horrors of the 'Reign of Terror'.
